

DEADCODE - Lyrics

Kingbreaker

to witness firsthand state of mine lone sycophants go crawling to deadline remorseless
animals in feeding misunderstand the sacrifice time bleeding out beneath them while they climb day will come you'll think instead

where did time go
I'm alone
meaningless the treasure
wasted
left here in pieces
weak somehow

ambitious crusade lost in vice and hunger possession filling vacant life hunger for more more
to witness firsthand state of mine
and hunger away away, away, away, wait...

where did time go
I'm alone
meaningless the treasure
wasted
left here in pieces somehow
where did time go
just begun
derelict endeavors
off guard not ready to go
give me one chance

fall
glorious empire open eyes to
eyes to the sun
surrender to these visions of frailty moment to reflect on what you've become and fell shallow defense we're not alone
eyes to the sun

Ignite

I'd been lost for so long when finally this meaningless bid coldly goodbye hiding long from this side decidedly I'm losing will to fall in line holding flame to bridge, ignite

I'd been last for so long and finally this seeming less held no more than lies biding lust for this time and silently I'm

losing will to fall in line
holding flame, ignite

night falls embers sinking like these straw men
far side fading gradients time and again

I don't feel isolated
never needed a cynic here
run through
I don't feel isolated
never needed a cynic here
like you

I'd been last for so long
suddenly don't belong these straw men hide a salience

Red Archades

all alone in the cries fear like a loaded gun held in a moment
against the grief

said the torment inside pour on the vengeful one bringing the blade on shining in these

weak eyes down
stealing light
can't look away for long
there chasm
reeling sight
return the stare, the wrong caught our self in this light shell of long face

aged and gray

set the torment aside ceding the vengeance shame hiding in these

weak eyes down
stealing light
can't look away for long
there chasm
reeling sight
return the stare, the wrong way righteous gives way brutally

when injury
peels away

likened
forever to wicked
seeping in to stay

A Well Fed Lie

feign holy throes
hiding behind long ago seething scorn for the low clean strays in crowns
following you down
cover burns to the ground

learned a lesson once again fell like the high road down
living a lie
learned the lesson once again
given the lie like wine

reign overgrown
finding solace making known reverence to your own clean and divinity under crowns
following you down
cover burns to the ground

heard a lesson once again
fell like the high road down
living a lie
learned the lesson once again
given the lie like wine

this farewell to all this soft illusion you hate anyway hiding behind piety stood plain as day failed halo taken in windows

to further your spite
mistaken
fed the lie like wine

and taken

Set and Osiris

deadened eyes waiting seduced by unsaid farther than the voice inside his head colder heart a wasteland a lacerated view in gallows there's cruelty hidden here
rending fear
living in

on the side of saving keeping watchful
guarding over incorruptible kept the sight away from prying hopeful
built walls around you
there's cruelty hidden here
rending fear
giving in to malevolence afraid I lied

when I told you
no monsters alive
I'm afraid that in some dark hearts
there lives a villain
fortified

so go, live, elated shut your eyes to the horror I'll shelter you from sinister shut you eyes to the horror and smile, and belong, go live paragon inspired I'll shelter you with innocence and become live wire desire to just hide away, progeny live as though this fictional stays at bay keeping you inside my wing, progeny may call upon a savagery to which I'll obey dawned upon revelation, embraced this field of view poisoned by own infliction, past apathy has drowned killer in this reflection, like sentry looking through I'll keep the villains at bay as long as I can

I'm afraid that I lied
when I told you
no monsters alive
I'm afraid that in some dark hearts
there lives a villain
fortified

Stasis

it's painful
this feeling like we lie in languish withering away

forfeit
sentiment we can abstain from suffering along the way in spite of aching outside

we weather anchors around our weary legs
we weather daggers when we breathe
reach daylight together
to find a way
we find some comform

serene
moments like the smile in speechless shedding the memory lifted adamant we can embrace these slivers of strong levity

in spite of aching outside
we weather anchors around our weary legs
we weather daggers when we breathe
reach daylight together
to find a way
bear down and balance heartache
not in vain

coalesce in brightened moments half the way to finer omens
coalesce in brightened moments
half the way home now

in spite of aching outside
we find a way back
we weather daggers when we breathe
reach daylight remember
to find a way
bear down and balance heartache
not in vain

when it feels like eyes go livid lost inside with none to give save this light

The Mend

made to wish I carried on ahead stayed amiss this weary flaw instead belie carried weight on these shoulders yet lying in wait leaves it smolder

it lingers in my side
another time betrayed and mind carried on
it lingers in my side
another time betrayed to mind carried on my mistakes carry on and remain free to roam

coming around water crashing spine and silhouette turns to stone dragging down and inconsiderate flooded and rising dragging down bliss insignificant see you arriving

nothing heals like you looked inside you

cold, let it steel my form and likeness
my hollow weathered eyes

carry on and remain